

New appointment for Joinerysoft

Joinerysoft are pleased to welcome John Sproat to their Sales Team. Based out of its Chipping Norton office, John will cover the western side of the U.K., providing demonstrations of Joinerysoft's Joinery Management Software, JMS.

Previously working in the joinery industry at a medium sized joinery manufacturer, John has experience as a user of JMS. He says, "I've seen firsthand what a difference it can make to joiners which helps me to share how relevant the software is with other joinery manufacturers."

John's unusual hobby as a hot-air balloon pilot brings Joinerysoft's total number of pilots within the company to five, though for a short while Joinerysoft are losing one pilot, who from next month will be flying hot-air balloons in Myanmar!

Andrew Gregory will be taking a sabbatical for four months, flying hot-air balloons commercially in Myanmar. He says, "I am fortunate to be able to realise a dream and plan to return to Joinerysoft next March."
